Court Jurisdiction

The Metropolitan General Sessions Court of Nashville-Davidson County serves as a very important “spoke in the wheel” as the basic foundation in the local justice system. It is a high volume limited jurisdiction Court that hears civil, misdemeanor, felony, traffic, environmental, and metropolitan ordinance violations. This court is served by 11 judges that are elected to an eight year term. There are also 5 full time, 5 power shift and 6 part time law-trained Judicial Magistrates, that handle the probable cause hearings in the issuance of a criminal warrant and 1 referee that handles the environmental cases and other non-traffic metro ordinance violations. For a majority of the citizens, this level of court will be their only encounter with the state’s justice system. Consequently, it has been frequently described as “the court of first resort.” The list below shows the area of law under the court’s jurisdiction.

- Criminal—Cases in which the applicable penalty is no more than 11 months, 29 days; Preliminary Hearing; Amount and conditions of all appearance bonds; Forfeiture of property used in commission of crime; Issuance of search warrants.
- Civil—Civil warrants with a jurisdictional limit of $25,000 and monetary jurisdiction is unlimited in detainer actions; Orders of Protection; Mental Health (involuntary committal); Tuberculosis Treatment (Non-Compliance).
- Environmental—Animal control, Housing code violations and Building code violations.
- Metro Ordinance—Traffic law violations; All other county ordinance violations.

Chief Justice Adolpho A. Birch, Jr.

Former Chief Justice A. A. Birch, Jr. is described by many as a trailblazer in the legal profession, a pioneering African-American jurist and scholar. Throughout his legal career, Justice Birch maintained a courageous voice and was a zealous advocate for civil rights. He often provided fairness and equality in legal access and treatment of criminal defendants.

Before his judicial career, in the early 1960s, along with maintaining a private law practice, Justice Birch provided volunteer legal services and representation for civil rights activists who had been arrested for conducting or participating in acts of segregated lunch counters. From this work, Justice Birch became a part-time public defender and would go on to become the first African-American to work as a prosecutor in Davidson County.

Justice Birch began his judicial career in 1969 as a General Sessions Court Judge in Davidson County and was the first African-American, and only Tennessee judge, to have served at every level of the state judicial system – general sessions, criminal trial, criminal appeals and the State of Tennessee Supreme Court.

During his service on the State of Tennessee Supreme Court, he became the first African-American to serve as Chief Justice, serving in that capacity from May 1994 – July 1997. During his tenure on the bench he received many awards and honors including the prestigious William H. Hoistie Award from the National Bar Association's Judicial Council, the Barbara Jordan Award from the International Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity and a Lifetime Achievement Award from the American Civil Liberties Union of Tennessee. Justice Birch retired in 2006, after serving 37 years on the bench and passed away on August 25, 2011.

This statue was dedicated to honor a lifetime of achievement by Justice A. A. Birch, Jr. that was inspired by an enduring commitment to equality, justice and service to all the citizens of Nashville, Davidson County and the State of Tennessee.

Mental Health Court

For more than ten years, the Davidson County Mental Health Court has provided crucial support and assistance to some of Nashville's most vulnerable citizens.

One of the first mental health courts established in the United States, the Davidson County Court has been on the leading edge of working with those in our community who are dealing with mental health challenges. Judge Melissa Blackburn presides over the court and oversees a staff of specialists trained to address the particular needs of court participants. During the past year, 148 people were evaluated by Mental Health Court specialists to determine their eligibility for the program with 84 new participants admitted. For the 2021 Fiscal Year, 83% of successful program graduates did not re-offend and did not return to involvement with the criminal justice system.

Individuals participating in the specialized court program may be on probation or on a diversion program for criminal charges. Potential clients are screened by mental health professionals to determine their compatibility for the program and, if they are accepted, the period of supervision typically lasts eleven months. More severe cases may remain within the program for a longer period of supervision. Court staff works on a routine basis to ensure compliance, assist in housing, monitor treatment for substance and alcohol abuse and provide medical services with a goal of establishing stability needed to be a contributing member of the community.

The court currently supervises more than two hundred participants, allowing them a fresh start and an opportunity to succeed in life.

For Fiscal Year 2017, Mayor Megan Berry included two new positions to be funded by the Metropolitan Government of Nashville-Davidson County in her budget proposal to the Metro Council. The Council approved these new positions, allowing the Mental Health Court to expand its scope of services and increase the number of Nashvillians served per year.

When we consider difficulties with increased incarceration and the constraints budget reductions placed on our justice and mental health systems, innovation in our approach is critical. The Davidson County Mental Health Court is meeting these challenges and providing a vital service to the community.

Veterans Court

In 2014, Davidson County was awarded a three-year implementation grant from the United States Department of Justice through the Tennessee Department of Mental Health and Substance Abuse Services. The purpose is to fund operation of a fully accredited specialty court tasked with serving Nashville's Veterans. During the past year, 17 Veterans were evaluated by Veterans Court specialists and 13 were admitted into the program.

Veterans specialty courts originated in Buffalo, NY beginning in 2008. Since then, dozens of courts have been established across the United States to assist with the unique difficulties of our service veterans. Judge Melissa Blackburn of General Sessions Division II presides over the court and supervises its operations.

Through a structured program administered by the court, eligible veterans can find stability and new purpose to be a contributor to the community. Benefits offered to assist veterans include mental health evaluation, alcohol/substance abuse assistance and supervision by client specialists assigned to work on their particular needs. Veterans agree to participate as a condition of probation or on a diversion program for criminal charges. For the FY 2022 Fiscal Year, 92% of Veterans Court program graduates did not re-offend.

The court works in partnership with metro and state government agencies and mental health providers, as well as veterans outreach and advocacy groups. Together, they form a support system that gives eligible veterans an opportunity to address issues brought about by their military service.

Beginning in Fiscal Year 2017 and continuing in 2022, the State of Tennessee included funding of Veterans Courts in the annual budget. The Davidson County Veterans Court was fortunate to be one of the courts selected to receive a portion of the state's funding. As a result of this support, 16 new veterans were supported and received the assistance they needed to return to life as a productive citizen.

In the new battlefields America faces, those in military service are exposed to warfare and experiences never previously encountered. Growing numbers of veterans returning from service face specific mental challenges as a result of fighting to defend our nation in an evolving and dangerous world. The methods by which we work to return them to full participation in society are crucial and the Davidson County Veterans Court is employing these new methods. It is the mission of the court to fulfill our nation's commitment to the men and women who chose to defend our way of life.

Recovery Court

The mission of the General Sessions Recovery Court is to promote judicial intervention and rehabilitation to substance abuse offenders to reduce drug related crimes among repeat offenders and to improve the life of the offender, thereby enhancing the quality of life for their families and community.

The Davidson County General Sessions Recovery Court is for legally involved individuals suffering from substance use disorder who are high risk of re-offending due to their substance use. Recovery Court was created to provide free services to participants while under court supervision for criminal offenses. The Honorable Judge Gale Robinson and his Recovery Court Staff, Tennessee Recovery Foundation, Public Defenders Office, District Attorney's Office, and numerous partner agencies make up the support system for the Recovery Court. Funded by Davidson County Metropolitan Government and the Tennessee Department of Mental Health and Substance Abuse Services through the Tennessee Recovery Foundation, the Court provides many services needed for positive reintegration into the community.

Recovery Court accepts candidates who can be supervised under bond conditions prior to any conviction. Upon successful completion of Recovery Court, these open charges are able to be dismissed or otherwise disposed of at the District Attorney's Office discretion. Recovery Court also accepts criminal court, community corrections and General Sessions probation cases. The Court requires participants to complete five program phases with a supervision period of about 18 months depending on the participant's clinical or criminogenic needs. Each phase addresses specific areas of the participant's life to support the recovery maintenance and societal reintegration into their community.

Program Manager Lauren Berens, Probation Officers Kate Ramsaur, Allison Tarpley, Leticia Lozano and Case Manager Lorin Abdullatif supervise participants to ensure court-ordered requirements are met. Services provided include substance use treatment and medication assisted treatment as clinically assessed, behavioral health services as clinically assessed, a minimum of 8 hours of educational and vocational advancement, HiSet preparations and testing, housing and transportation referrals and assistance, drug and alcohol testing, employment and community service requirements and referrals for any other component in which our Probation Officers and the Treatment team recommend.

While participating in Recovery Court, participants attend office visits with their probation officer at a minimum of once per month to have a one on one check in and provide a safe space in the legal arena for participants to visit. Additionally, Recovery Court staff complete home and employment visits for all participants on a monthly basis. These visits allow the probation officer to be further informed on the participant support systems and provides the participant the opportunity to communicate with their probation office on their own space. Building a strong, safe relationship with participants is a main aspect in the success of the Recovery Court model.

Recovery Court has multiple graduations each year signifying participants' achievement of meeting all treatment goals and court ordered requirements. Graduation confirms the participant is prepared to reenter their community in recovery and independent of legal involvement and substance use disorder. All graduating participants are invited to return to the program to provide support to current participants or seek assistance from the Court and partnering agencies if additional services are required or requested.

Environmental Court

When disputes arise over the enforcement of the Davidson County Metropolitan Code of Laws and Regulations they are brought to the Environmental Court, a division of the General Sessions Court. This docket was created in 2001 to address Metro Code violations pertaining to buildings, trash, debris in neighborhoods and business sites, and short term rental violations. This court also enforces leash law violations, nuisance complaints about dog barking, and at large or vicious dogs. Defendants found guilty of violations of the Metro Code of Laws are liable for court costs and can be subject to fines of $50 per day for every day the property remains in violation. The court may also order the defendant to spend time in jail for a maximum of ten days. Once a warrant has been served, the defendant is responsible for all costs, including any fines. The Codes Department cannot waive court costs, assessed fines or release any liens assessed by the court to recover these costs. The court meets each Tuesday with three (3) dockets at 9:00 am, 10:00 am and 11:00 am in courtroom 3B at the Justice A.A. Birch Building (408 2nd Ave. North). The 9:00 am docket handles metro codes cases. The 11:00 AM Metro Citation Docket, handles citations written by departments such as, Police Alarms, Fire, Water, Codes and Health, Emissions, Beer Board, Traffic And Parking Commission and Animal Control. Special hearings are conducted on Friday at 10:00 am & 1:00 pm. The court is presided by current General Sessions Court Division IV-Judge Allegra Walker and Referee Renard Hirsch.

Domestic Violence Court

In response to a city-wide Domestic Violence Safety Assessment, the Davidson County General Sessions Court's docket structure was reorganized in 2014 to allow for a dedicated Domestic Violence Court. While the Court has been hearing cases involving Domestic Violence with Judge Gale Robinson presiding over such dockets for more than 24 years, the current docket structure provides an efficient and timely processing of cases involving domestic violence, and simplifies the court process for all parties involved.

All Orders of Protection and criminal cases involving domestic violence in the General Sessions Court are docketed in the dedicated Domestic Violence Court which operates daily in Courtroom 4B and 4C of the Justice A.A. Birch Building. The three (3) judges assigned to preside over the dedicated Domestic Violence Court on a rotating basis are Gale Robinson and Allegra Walker and Ana L. Escobar. The Criminal Court Clerks for Domestic Violence docket preparation is Matthew Du, Mary McKinnie, and Malcom Nevils.

The dedicated Domestic Violence Court began operation on September 2, 2014.

CHERISHED H.E.A.R.T.S.

Healing Enslaved and Repressed Trafficking Survivors

HUMAN TRAFFICKING INTERVENTION COURT

In February 2016, Assistant District Attorneys Tammy Meade and Deb Smith, under the leadership of District Attorney General Glenn Funk, created an innovative intervention court titled Cherished H.E.A.R.T.S. This court was created in response to a clear social issue where survivors of human trafficking were caught in a criminal cycle due to their traumatic experiences, criminal records and, for some, substance abuse disorder. This court is open to all women, men and transgendered survivors of human trafficking and is one of the few trafficking courts in the country. The program is voluntary and participants agree to a twenty four month supervision. When the survivor successfully completes the program, their offense(s) may be dismissed and expunged at no expense.

The Honorable Judge Ana L. Escobar presides over Cherished H.E.A.R.T.S. She has partnered with the Tennessee Recovery Foundation, End Slavery Tennessee, The Office of Family Safety and the General Sessions Probation Department. The Davidson County Drug Court Foundation and End Slavery Tennessee help provide safe housing, substance abuse treatment and support, trauma and mental health counseling, medical treatment, assistance in receiving government aid, and employment assistance all at no cost to the survivor. Melanie Taylor, the Program Manager, and the General Sessions Probation Department provides the supervision of program compliance and helps coordinate court requirements, community partners, incentives and sanctions. Cherished H.E.A.R.T.S. is partnered with End Slavery Tennessee, the Davidson County Attorney General's Office, the Public Defender's Office, the Office of Family Safety, Averhealth, Davidson County Criminal Court Clerk, Rest Stop, Mending Hearts, The Next Door, Renewal House, Independence Again, Emanuel House and others to further support participants in the program.

While in Cherished H.E.A.R.T.S., survivors attend court regularly and complete substance abuse and mental health treatment as clinically recommended. Participants gain employment and receive assistance with physical health needs and any other needs identified are attempted to be met through our thorough case management. Consistent support is crucial to creating self-worth as survivors move toward a crime free and independent lifestyle.

Creating Avenues for Restoration & Empowerment
Diversionary Court for Ages 18-30

The C.A.R.E. Diversionary Court launched in 2020 and works to emphasize the ways crime harms relationships in the community and brings together the people most impacted by the crime to resolve it. Offenders ages 18-30 are still forming their cognitive ability and usually entering the criminal justice system for the first time. Participants are given a second chance and the ability to restore the victim and be held accountable. Successful participants receive individualized case management and after completion of the 4 Phase Program their charges are dismissed and expunged.

Pictured above are two of our three C.A.R.E. graduates from this year. Their smiles come from a sense of accomplishment and that they no longer have a criminal record hindering them from accomplishing their goals. About his time with the CARE program, one graduate said, "I'm grateful you guys have been with me. I'm back eating regular. I'm sleeping regularly. I'm just happy, not depressed. Everything is coming to me, even job opportunities."

The Music City Community Court was already in partnership talks with MDHA before the pandemic hit Nashville. But as federal aid began to run out in early 2022, the need became more urgent. Judge Rachel Bell partnered with MDHA and Legal Aid to help MDHA residents that were behind on their rent come to a repayment arrangement that was affordable for them and also keep them housed. MDHA has agreed to not file for evictions as long as residents continue to work with them and the MCCC to get caught up.

Homeless Court

The Metropolitan Nashville-Davidson County General Sessions Courts along with several non-profits and Baker Donelson Legal Clinic have launched the Nashville Homeless Court program to assist our homeless.

NHC is a diversionary court that routes individuals who struggle with homelessness out of the traditional legal outcomes of convictions, incarceration, and probation and toward connection with service providers that can further assist with removing barriers to employment and housing. Judge Lynda Jones is the Homeless Court Presiding Judge. Judges Blackburn, Coleman and Higgins also assisted.

Judicial Magistrates

Five judicial magistrates—each possessing the qualifications of a judge—comprise what is known collectively as “Night Court,” a viable and productive extension of the General Sessions Court. The identifying label is derived from the fact that the Magistrates preside over proceedings that take place after normal business hours. But it is misleading in that the panel is actually on duty 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, serving a broad range of functions relevant to the criminal justice process.

In addition to their other job responsibilities, the magistrates:

- * Conduct probable cause hearings, issue warrants and set bail bonds in criminal cases
- * Determine probable cause for judicial committals from county psychiatric facilities
- * Issue Ex Parte Orders of Protection, as well as warrants for violations of such orders
- * Issue property seizure warrants upon probable cause

Each magistrate is appointed by the court for a one-year term that dictates seven-day work weeks and alternating eight-hour work shifts.

Performance

Nashville’s Traffic Safety Education Program continues to outperform other municipalities. In 2018, our agency had the honor of being awarded the Training Center of the Year for our Defensive Driving Course (DDC) Online by the National Safety Council (NSC). Another prestigious award was given to the agency as the 2018 Training Center of the Year Multiple Program recognizing the tremendous efforts poured into numerous courses offered at the General Sessions Court Traffic Safety Education Program. As the staff continues to work closely with the National Safety Council, we’re hopeful that the Fiscal Year 2021-2022 awards will include our agency and further promote the hard-work and dedication of our staff. The staff at the Traffic Safety Education Program have been diligent in accommodating the needs of those wanting to attend classes during these unchartered times. The staff has maintained great perseverance and professionalism.

Probation & DUI Bond

Fiscal Year July 1, 2021 to June 30, 2022 Probation Department Annual Report

The General Sessions Court Probation Department is committed to promoting and maintaining a safe community for the citizens of Nashville-Davidson County. The department is responsible for providing the necessary resources available to offenders in order for them to successfully comply with the conditions of probation.

In addition to the supervision of regular misdemeanor probation cases assigned by General Sessions Courts, the Probation Department provides additional support to General Sessions' Specialty Courts and Day Reporting Programs operated by the Davidson County Sheriff's Office. Probation Officers coordinate alternative options to meet the needs of our clients by collaborating with the Human Trafficking Intervention Court, also known as Cherished H.E.A.R.T.S. Our department also works closely with the C.A.R.E. Court, aimed at participants ages 18-30. The Probation Department recognizes the importance of utilizing the Recovery Court and/or Mental Health and Veterans Court as a means of addressing any substance abuse or mental health concerns our client base encounters. We also work closely with the Office of Family Safety, DA's Office, Mayor's Office, treatment providers, and other agencies on the High Risk Intervention Panel (HRIP), identifying and discussing high-risk domestic violence cases. Our joint efforts with these specialized courts and agencies allow our department to create resources that prove beneficial to the success of the client's well-being.

The Probation Department also supervises persons on bond who are accused of being a multiple DUI offender. The purpose of this intensive supervision is to protect the public from potentially high risk impaired drivers and to direct them to substance abuse treatment, drug testing and additional pretrial monitoring if needed.

Over the years, the Probation Department has become more engaged in the community. We utilize staff expertise to provide information to clients on traffic and safety education, available community treatment resources, and started a job initiative program with local businesses. The department has held 2 job fairs that resulted in 20+ probationers being hired. To help lessen the struggle for school students, the Probation Department hosted a School Supply Drive benefitting DG Pencil Box and Metro Nashville Public Schools.

The Probation Department continues to seek alternative means of help for probationers who have critical needs. We recognize that the aftereffects of the COVID-19 pandemic and rise in cost of living has made it challenging for many clients to comply with probation requirements. To address these problems, the General Sessions Court Probation Department is focusing on providing resources to help the unemployed, indigent, homeless persons and those requiring alcohol and drug treatment.
